The transaction sees Azelis acquire 100% of Euroconsultant, with all employees joining the Azelis team.

Azelis, a leading distributor of speciality chemicals and food ingredients, has signed an agreement to acquire Euroconsultant Ltd., a Polish distributor of flavours, shelf life extenders and other products predominantly for the meat segment.

The transaction sees Azelis acquire 100% of Euroconsultant, with all employees joining the Azelis team. Although Euroconsultant is predominantly active in the meat segment, the company is diversifying into other segments such as fish, cheese, dairy and poultry flavours. The mission of the company is to reduce the traditional smoking to a clean, safe and economical method using smoke condensates.

Azelis' focus on application development and innovation is well recognised, and an important part of its ongoing success. The company has been renowned for its innovative product formulations across the regions in which it operates, winning a number of outstanding industry awards.
