DSM, a leading supplier of active nutritional ingredients to the global feed industry, will showcase its latest innovations - RONOZYME HiPhos and MaxiChick Breeder Calculator App at Eurotier 2014.

An increasing body of scientific evidence supports the benefits of integrating phytases in animal diets to improve animal performance. Proven to create an Extra Phosphoric Effect (EPE) at economic dose, DSM’s RONOZYME HiPhos supports a more efficient use of amino acids, ultimately improving growth rate, feed conversion and boosting profitability.

MaxiChick Breeder Calculator App, this user-friendly new app from DSM allows the user to visualise the extra profit that can potentially be generated by introducing feeding innovations. Based on a simple three-step process, it enables the quick calculation of the potential impact of any possible change in husbandry practice or diet on the profitability of the flock and can also be used to support decision-making processes, feed additive evaluation and training and teaching.
