The Central Food Technological Research Institute (CFTRI) has launched an online platform called ’SME Corner’ to connect small and medium entrepreneurs with CFTRI.

The platform aims to help Small and Medium Entrepreneurs (SMEs) to set up food businesses.

On the platform, the SMEs will get proper guidance on how to set up food industry. The SMEs can register themselves on the platform and post their queries under different categories and the concerned expert and scientists will answer them.

According to CFTRI, “the aim main of the accelerator is to produce successful firms and make them financially viable and independent through science and technology interventions.”
