AI-powered Ayurveda assistant, Aarika, aims to enhance Ayurvedic practice

The Kairali Ayurvedic Group, a leader in authentic Ayurveda, has announced the launch of KAAI, an innovative Artificial Intelligence (AI) application designed to assist Ayurveda practitioners.

This AI assistant, Aarika, combines knowledge from ancient Ayurvedic texts including Charaka Samhita and Sushruta Samhita with modern research. Aarika aims to support Ayurvedic practice management by offering diagnostic assistance, personalised recommendations, and comprehensive patient care tools.

Abhilash K. Ramesh, Executive Director of Kairali Ayurvedic Group, stated, "Aarika represents a significant step in our mission to bridge traditional Ayurvedic wisdom with modern technology. We aim to provide practitioners with a tool that offers research-based insights to complement their expertise in patient care, fostering a holistic approach to healthcare."

Developed as a digital assistant for Ayurvedic Vaidyas and practitioners, Aarika is designed to enhance consultation efficiency while maintaining high privacy and security standards.

Aarika is developed as a comprehensive solution to address the evolving needs of modern Ayurvedic practitioners. Its AI capabilities are designed to analyse inputted patient data and suggest potential Ayurvedic diagnoses and treatments, serving as a supportive tool in the consultation process.

The application features a user-friendly interface to integrate with existing systems, aiming for seamless adoption into current workflows. Aarika's algorithm is regularly updated to incorporate recent Ayurvedic research and practices, striving to provide practitioners with access to current knowledge in the field.
