The flagship probiotics line features formulations such as DigesTx, MoodTx, GlucoTx and LeanTx

MicrobioTx, a young research-based gut microbiome company, announced the launch of a new range of probiotics designed to address various wellness needs. The probiotics have been formulated under the guidance of one of India's leading microbiome researchers - Dr Palok Aich, to address the intricate requirements of the Indian gut for various wellness conditions.

The flagship probiotics line features formulations such as DigesTx, MoodTx, GlucoTx and LeanTx, each designed to support the unique gut microbiome profiles of people looking for better gastrointestinal health, mental wellness, glucose metabolism support and weight management respectively. These solutions combine scientifically or clinically validated, regulatory-approved probiotic strains with precise dosing to support gut balance. Enhanced with prebiotics and Vitamin D, the formulations provide a natural, non-habit-forming option for improving gut health. Each formulation is crafted using gut profile data from the Indian population to effectively target specific wellness needs.

The probiotics would significantly enhance the existing portfolio of MicrobioTx, a microbiome science-based startup. MicrobioTx aims to differentiate itself by launching unique, clinically backed offerings such as the world's first blood-based gut microbiome profiling test Gut Function Test, and India's first Personal ProbioTx - hyper-personalised probiotics handcrafted for the unique gut. The newly launched range of probiotics is a natural addition to clinically validated specific solutions.
